Dr. Matthew Bair

VA Researchers Who Served

Richard L. Roudebush VA Medical Center

Main area of study: Pain management

Dr. Matthew Bair, an Army Veteran, is a general internist and pain researcher at the Richard L. Roudebush VA Medical Center in Indianapolis and an associate professor of medicine at Indiana University. His long-term research goal is to develop and test therapies that combine pharmacologic and non-pharmacologic treatments. The treatments will address some of the barriers to pain management and can be applied in primary care settings.

Bair is a core investigator in the VA HSR&D Center for Health Information and Communication, which is aiming to transform the healthcare system, both within and outside of VA, so all patients receive consistent, high-quality care. He has served on national VA committees on improving pain management.

VA

U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs

Veterans Health Administration

Office of Research & Development

DISCOVERY INNOVATION ADVANCEMENT DISCOVERY INNOVATION ADVANCEMENT